

Child Trafficking: A Scottish Perspective

Wednesday, October 29, 2014

Scottish Youth Theatre, 105 Brunswick Street, Glasgow

This one day conference will focus on children and young people who are victims of trafficking, including of internal trafficking.

The conference will be chaired by Beth Smith (Director, WithScotland), with a welcome address from Tam Baillie (Commissioner for Children and Young People).

Keynote speakers include Philip Ishola (Counter Child Trafficking Organisation), Kirsty Thomson (Legal Services Agency), Robin Veitch (Police Scotland), Catriona McSween (Aberlour Guardianship Project), Moira Mckinnon and Sheila Muriel (Glasgow City Council), and Catherine Duggan (Scottish Government).

These inputs will explore the current Scottish experience of child trafficking, legislation, practice models and support for victims, as well as some of the challenges and forthcoming legislation.

The day will culminate in a discussion panel, allowing delegates the opportunity for questions and exploration of further areas for training and support.

To join us at this free conference please complete the attached application form and return it to cycj@strath.ac.uk by October 10. Successful applicants will be notified week beginning October 15. Please note that spaces are limited.

This conference will be of interest to all practitioners who have contact with children and young people, particularly those involved in Child Protection and working in the Youth and Criminal Justice sector.

All information relating to this conference will be available via the CYCJ e-bulletin, website and Twitter account.

www.cycj.org.uk

Follow us on Twitter @CYCJScotland